A graphic is circulating on messaging applications like WhatsApp. It attributes a claim to the World Health Organization (WHO) which says that no vegetarian is "effected by coronavirus" and that the virus requires animal protein in the body to survive. The graphic also includes a statement credited to WHO's representative in China Gauden Galea. The statement reads, "As long as people eat meat there is going to be some risk of infection."

I had said this several days back .. but people didn't like it , now this has confirmed that no...
